

Central Government Programme

To serve citizens better, improve outcomes, and deliver more value for money, the UK has to accelerate the transformation of public services through the smart application of digital technology. techUK aims to lead debate on new technologies and provide a forum for government to engage with tech suppliers. We help government access leading industry expertise at an early stage in tackling challenges, and help our members improve their understanding of government requirements.

Our focus, activities and projects to be undertaken in 2025:

- Supporting the aims of the Blueprint for Modern Digital Government
- Procurement focused market engagement and Procurement Act updates
- AI in public procurement – use by buyers and suppliers
- Maximising social value for tech procurement
- Supporting the aims of the Digital Centre of Government

Programme Value Proposition

Industry Access

techUK provides a forum for our members to engage with UK Government. We facilitate market engagement sessions with all the major Whitehall Departments – particularly the Home Office, DWP, HMRC and the GPA – based on upcoming procurement opportunities. The Programme also allows members to network with a view to developing effective partnerships for public sector bids.

Influence Policy

We work with the public sector to evangelise the use of technology for addressing challenges. We try to improve how government buys technology, ensuring that procurement is easy and friction-free. For example, we work with the Cabinet Office to add nuance to the use of social value in tech procurement, and we engage with the Crown Commercial Service to ensure that frameworks are supplier friendly.

Inside Track

We hold regular departmental briefings which allow members to have sight of departmental objectives and strategies. We share market analysis of government tech spend, and insights on important government policies. With this increased visibility of government strategies and budgets, members have the insight to make smart business decisions and to produce high quality bids.

Impact Performance

Our member-only supplier days help members to interact with government departments and to understand their strategic objectives and needs as a customer. Additionally, we facilitate opportunities for companies to meet and network with each other with a view to making strong partnerships for specific procurement opportunities. All of these meetings and networking opportunities put members in a better position to win business.

Return on Investment

techUK members have the tools and opportunities they need to thrive in the public sector. The Programme facilitates relationships that helps our members to win bids and to grow. We reduce the cost of finding relevant business opportunities. We ensure our members have early sight of tender opportunities and market engagement events. And we help members to make connections with government departments.
